Ever since the start of Chinese linguistic studies, the description of the Chinese particle LE has remained elusive. The classification has evolved from a listing of sentences and the discussion of contrastive pairs to a more context and discourse-oriented analysis. The development in recent years of inferential models and situation semantics has opened the way for a renewed study of the use of the Chinese particle LE. This book discusses the Chinese data from a 'mental space' perspective and finally reveals the role so-called Chinese 'sentence LE' plays in the construction and maintenance of discourse.

This fun book for all ages, is based on James J. Asher's stimulating & effective Total Physical Response program. It contains 67 lively "happenings" where students give & physically respond to commands, thus actually communicating in English.

Presents language and literacy activities for young adult and adult students with minimal literacy skills in English. Includes detailed teacher's notes and an answer key.
