In this sweeping critique of how managers are consequences,”

Mintzberg writes.

“Using the classroom to help develop people already practicing management is a fine idea, but pretending to create managers out of people who have never managed is a sham.”

Leaders cannot be created in a classroom.

They arise in context.

But people who already practice management can significantly improve their effectiveness given the opportunity to learn thoughtfully from their own experience.

Mintzberg calls for a more engaging approach to managing and a more reflective approach to management education. He also outlines how business schools can
