The report describes the operation and use of Program OPERATE, the sixth part of Project COMPASS, a Computer Assisted Classification and Assignment System. Program OPERATE and its necessary accompanying parts are FORTRAN Computer programs and subroutines. Program OPERATE selects and assigns to a naval recruit, if possible, a naval school. Selection is done by means of a modified version of the transportation algorithm applied to test battery scores. The program then punches out an assignment card. It is to be used in conjunction with Program LOCNEC, Technical Bulletin STB 66-32, which completes the assignment process by assigning a Navy Enlisted Classification Code, a calendar week code, and a school location code. (Author).

The report describes the operation and use of Program GENDET, the fourth part of Project Compass, a Computer Assisted Classification and Assignment System. Program GENDET selects and assigns graduation rates and Naval Enlisted Classification Codes to recruits. These recruits were recommended for fleet assignments or were recommended for a naval school, but due to quota limitations, were unable to be selected for class 'A' school training. (Author).

The report describes the operation and use of Program LOCNEC, the fifth part of Project COMPASS, a Computer Assisted Classification and Assignment System. Program LOCNEC, a FORTRAN computer program, assigns Naval Enlisted Classification Codes, school class convening dates, and school location codes to those recruits selected for the various naval schools. The logic of Program LOCNEC is incorporated into Program SKOOL, the third part of Project COMPASS. However, if Program OPERATE (Project Compass, Part VI) is used to make the school assignment, Program LOCNEC is then necessary, as a separate run, to complete the additional assignment above.
