"We cannot sit idly while plastic continues to wash up on our beaches and into animals' mouths and our own bodies."--Page 4 of cover.

Deep in the South near the Mississippi border lived a dark-skinned girl with skin of chocolate, eyes as big as marbles, and hair as thick as the batter of a cake, who went by the name of Testa. Testa lived with her mother, father and three siblings on a small farm in an old wooden shack. Although Testa's family was very poor, they were very rich with love for one another, as long as they had each other and God in their lives. Testa, her mother and siblings later moved to the big, crucial, lonely, and intense city of New York, to seek a better life, leaving her father behind to watch over the crops until the winter rolled in-something Testa was not happy about because she loved her father very much. He was a good man who worked very hard to take care of his family. Life wasn't kind to Testa. Her father died shortly after their move to New York, leaving Testa with a broken heart to mend.
