~~Skellig - Wikipedia~~

Skellig was the only book on the list I hadn't read, and the children and their teacher gave it such a glowing review that I thought I should (I've read one other David Almond book - Clay, which I thought was very good.) David was in constant contact with updates, directions or any questions I had. I would highly recommend Skellig Force Awakens!! You must book in advance, sometimes months to secure a spot. Only 100 people a day can visit the island. The small boats that charter can only take 12 passengers out once a day. It also depends on the weather if you can take the trip. At first I thought Skellig was a bird, then it turned out he was a young man. When you look at the picture at the front of the book, at first glance you probably think Michael, a young boy who finds Skellig, or Skellig himself, has wings at the very start of the book.

There's an empty notebook lying on the table in the moonlight. It's been there for an age. I keep on saying that I'll write a journal. So I'll start right here, right now. I open the book and write the very first words: My name is Mina and I love the night. Then what shall I write? I can't just write that this happened then this happened then this happened to boring infinitum. I'll let my journal grow just like the mind does, just like a tree or a beast does, just like life does. Why should a book tell a tale in a dull straight line? And so Mina writes and writes in her notebook, and here is her journal, Mina's life in Mina's own words: her stories and dreams, experiences and thoughts, her scribblings and nonsense, poems and songs. Her vivid account of her vivid life. In this stunning
